This document explains the process and guidelines for the preparation and submission of the Membership Monitoring Reports by the member cities of the UNESCO Creative Cities Programme (UCCP). These reports, which must be submitted every four years following the year of designation, are intended:

- to demonstrate the steadfast commitment of the members towards the implementation of the UCCP Mission Statement at both local and international level;
- to renew the engagement of the members through the presentation of an action plan for the following four years intended to enhance the implementation of the UCCP Mission Statement as well as contribute to the implementation of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development;
- to document and foster the collection, analysis and exchange of information, knowledge and expertise with UNESCO, fellow member cities and the international community on the activities towards sustainable development developed in the framework of the Programme, so as to showcase the impact of the UNESCO Creative Cities to the implementation of international development agenda;
- to illustrate and assess the importance and the impact of being a UNESCO Creative City at the local and international levels; and
- to encourage the development of research and case studies on the concepts and experiences of the creative cities and the potential of creativity for sustainable urban development, as well as the gathering of new data and prospects on new challenges and opportunities.

1. BACKGROUND

In applying to become a member of the UNESCO Creative Cities Network, each city acknowledges its commitment to sharing best practices, developing partnerships, promoting creativity and the creative economy, strengthening engagement and participation in cultural life, and integrating culture in urban development plans. Moreover, in applying for membership, each city acknowledges its commitment to participating in the areas of action set forth in the UCCP Mission Statement, notably by:
• sharing experiences, knowledge and best practices that inform public policy and local action;
• driving and participating in pilot projects, partnerships and initiatives bringing together the public and private sectors and civil society;
• contributing to professional and artistic exchange programmes and networks;
• developing studies, research and evaluations on the experience of the Creative Cities;
• promoting policies and measures for sustainable urban development; and
• engaging in communication and awareness-raising activities.

In adhering to the UCCP, member cities also agree to periodically provide detailed information on the effective implementation and impact of activities related to its designation as a UNESCO Creative City and recognize the importance of actively communicating their actions to UNESCO and the fellow members of the Programme.

2. OBJECTIVES

The objective of the Membership Monitoring Exercise is to collect, analyze and share information, monitor and evaluate the impact of being a Creative City at the local and international levels, verify the steadfast commitment of the city members of the Programme and assess trends in strengthening the role of culture and creativity as enablers and drivers of the economic, social and environmental dimensions of sustainable urban development.

In order to streamline the process by which member cities report on their different activities, the present Monitoring Guidelines will serve as a guide to the Creative Cities, the Coordination Committee and UNESCO. The objectives of the UCCP Membership Monitoring Guidelines are thus two-fold:

i. For the member cities, they provide clear guidance on what is expected in terms of reporting once membership to the Programme has been granted.

ii. For UNESCO, the monitoring guidelines streamline the process whereby the Secretariat acts as a clearing-house to collect the knowledge base produced by the member cities’ reports with a view to monitoring trends, emerging challenges and opportunities, highlighting achievements and progress to better inform policy making of UNESCO Member States and measure the impact of the UNESCO designation.

The systematic collection, analysis and dissemination of information will contribute to more effectively charting progress, showcasing the concrete achievements of the UNESCO Creative Cities, highlighting effective policies, measures, strategies and partnerships and supporting evidence-based formulation and implementation of future action plans while alerting to emerging issues regarding the impact of culture and creativity on sustainable urban development.

The Membership Monitoring Exercise complements the information provided on a regular basis by the member cities whenever they develop local policies and initiatives or inter-city partnerships and events having a direct link with the implementation of the Programme’s Mission Statement for diffusion on the Programme’s website, as well as the presentations of the activities undertaken and future plans for the creative fields covered by the Programme foreseen in the annual conferences of the Network.
As of September 2019, 68 Membership Monitoring Reports have been submitted to UNESCO, which are available on the Programme’s website.

3. PROCESS

Member cities should submit their Membership Monitoring Reports to UNESCO by 30 November at the latest every four years, starting from the year of designation. Reports should be submitted via creativecities@unesco.org in a format suitable for e-publication.

More precisely, the Creative Cities designated in 2015 should submit their report by 31 December 2019 (extended deadline on an exceptional basis for this year), then every four years. Those designated between 2004 and 2009 should submit their (second) report in 2020 by 30 November, then every four years. Please refer to the annex for the complete list of the aforementioned cities.

The reports are published on the UNESCO Creative Cities Network website following each reporting cycle.

The Secretariat will transfer, through the cluster coordinators, the reports to the member cities by creative field in January. The coordinators shall facilitate the assessment within their cluster and produce a short evaluation of each report. Each evaluation shall not exceed 1,200 words and include a substantiated global appreciation (a. very satisfactory; b. satisfactory; c. unsatisfactory), as well as, if necessary, specific recommendations for improving the impact of the activities to be implemented in the future by the member city to achieve the objectives of the Programme. The evaluation report shall also include a brief assessment of the impact vis-à-vis the Sustainable Development Goals enshrined in the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development.

The clusters will have until the end of February to proceed with their assessment and submit the consolidated assessments to UNESCO. A brief report on the Membership Monitoring Exercise is made by UNESCO at the following Annual Conference of the Programme.
