UNESCO Creative Cities Network
Guidelines for the Membership Monitoring Report

April 2021

The current document presents the process and guidelines for the preparation and submission of the Membership Monitoring Report (MMR) by member cities of the UNESCO Creative Cities Network (UCCN).

As part of member cities’ commitment towards the UCCN, the reports are required to be submitted every four years following the year of designation, and are intended:

- to demonstrate the steadfast commitment of the members towards the implementation of the UCCN Mission Statement at both local and international level;
- to renew the engagement of the members through the presentation of an action plan for the following four years intended to enhance the implementation of the UCCN Mission Statement and contribute to the implementation of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development, in particular Goal 11 ‘Make cities and human settlements inclusive, safe, resilient and sustainable’;
- to document and foster the collection, analysis and exchange of information, knowledge and expertise with UNESCO, fellow member cities and the international community on the activities towards sustainable development established in the framework of the Network, so as to showcase the impact of the UNESCO Creative Cities in the implementation of the international development agenda;
- to illustrate and assess the importance and the impact of being a UNESCO Creative City at the local, national, and international levels;
- to encourage the development of research and case studies on the concepts and experiences of the Creative Cities, and the potential of culture and creativity for sustainable urban development, as well as, gathering new data and prospects on new challenges and opportunities in the urban context; and
- to contribute to international monitoring and reporting efforts for the implementation of the 2030 Agenda, complementing and providing support to main global mechanisms and tools such as the Voluntary National Reviews and the Voluntary Local Reviews.

As of March 2021, 128 Membership Monitoring Reports have been submitted to UNESCO, which are available on the Network’s website.

For 2021 cycle, Creative Cities designated between 2010 and 2013 shall submit their second reports, meanwhile those designed in 2017 shall submit their first reports.
1. BACKGROUND

In applying to become a member of the UNESCO Creative Cities Network, each city acknowledges its commitment to sharing best practices, developing partnerships, promoting creativity and the creative economy, strengthening engagement and participation in cultural life, and integrating culture and creativity in urban development plans. Moreover, in applying for membership, each city also acknowledges its commitment to participate in the areas of action set forth in the UCCN Mission Statement.¹

In adhering to the Network’s mission and objectives, member cities also agree to periodically submit a detailed report that contains information on the city’s effective implementation of the objectives of the Network, and the impact of the activities related to its designation as a UNESCO Creative City. The process also recognizes the importance of actively communicating city’s actions to UNESCO and its Member States, the fellow members cities of the Network, and other stakeholders and partners.

2. OBJECTIVES

The objective of the Membership Monitoring and Reporting Exercise is to collect, analyze and share information, monitor and evaluate the impact of being a Creative City at the local and international levels, verify the steadfast commitment of the member cities of the Network, and assess trends in strengthening the role of culture and creativity as drivers of the economic, social and environmental dimensions of sustainable urban development.

In order to streamline the process by which member cities report on their different activities, the present Guidelines will serve as a guide to UNESCO and its Creative Cities. The objectives of the Guidelines are thus two-fold:

i. For Member Cities: The guidelines provide clear instructions on what is expected in terms of reporting once membership to the Network has been granted; and

ii. For UNESCO: The guidelines streamline the process whereby the Secretariat acts as a clearing-house to collect the knowledge base produced by the member cities’ reports with a view to: a) monitoring trends, and emerging challenges and opportunities; b) highlighting achievements and progress to better inform policy making of UNESCO Member States, and c) measuring the impact of the UNESCO designation.

The systematic collection, analysis, and dissemination of information will contribute to more effectively charting progress, showcasing concrete achievements of the UNESCO Creative Cities as well as alerting emerging issues regarding the impact of culture and creativity on sustainable urban development. Furthermore, the exercise provides information on effective policies, measures, strategies and partnerships, as well as supports evidence-based formulation and implementation of future action plans at the city level. The Membership Monitoring and Reporting Exercise further complements the information provided by member cities on a regular basis for communication and diffusion purpose via the UCCN website. The diverse set of information are related to the development of local policies, inter-city partnerships or organization of events, amongst others that have a direct link with the implementation of the Network’s Mission Statement.

3. PROCESS

Member cities are requested to submit their Membership Monitoring Reports to UNESCO every four years, starting from the year of designation. For the current cycle, member cities concerned should submit their reports by the deadline of 30 November 2021. Reports should be submitted via creativecities@unesco.org in a format (.doc and/or .pdf) suitable for e-publication. Please refer to the annex for the complete list of the aforementioned cities.

Once the reports are received by the Secretariat, they are published on the UNESCO Creative Cities Network website. The Secretariat will also transfer the reports to the member cities by creative field at the beginning of the following year for its evaluation. The coordinators coordinate and facilitate the evaluation process within their respective cluster. Each cluster should collectively determine its preferred working method to enhance participation and optimize the process.

The assessment process for each report will then be undertaken within each cluster and a short-consolidated evaluation for each report using the Evaluation Form provided by the UCCN Secretariat should be submitted back to the Secretariat following this process. The results will be then transmitted to the concerned member cities.

4. MONITORING GUIDELINES

The following monitoring guidelines reflect the spirit and objectives of the UCCN Mission Statement and the Designation Procedure.

The MMRs should be written in English and/or French and be as clear, concise, and informative as possible with supporting data when appropriate.
