QUALITY NEWS FOR STRONG MEDIA AND INFORMATION LITERATE CITIES: LIBRARIANS AND JOURNALISTS WORKING TO CHALLENGE FAKE NEWS

A Presentation for the GAPMIL 2018 Conference

This project was made possible in part by the Institute of Museum and Library Services LG-98-17-0137-17

#knownews2018
KNOW NEWS: ENGAGING WITH MIS- AND DISINFORMATION

APRIL 21-22, 2018

Agenda:

• Inventory and Inform
• Integrate and Incorporate
• Innovate and Initiate DAY ONE:
TAKE-AWAYS

Cognition – Community -
Credibility – Context –
Capitalism - Crisis

Build our community of practice to serve our communities in current context, perhaps a crisis of cognition, by communicating our collective contribution
PROPOSAL DEVELOPMENT: LIBRARIES AS LIVING LABORATORIES
OUTCOMES: PROPOSALS & PRESS RELEASES
Librarians, journalists, and allied professionals are all concerned with:
- The quality of information and signaling authority and credibility
- Building trust
- Balancing transparency and perspective without bias
- Impacts of market pressures on content
- Connecting communities with information, and educating people
- Creating space for civic and civil discourse
FINDINGS RE: STANDARDS, PRACTICES, & VALUES ACROSS FIELDS: DIVERGENCES

- Public libraries are unique as publicly funded spaces
- The record: correcting vs. preserving
- Difference of sources: people vs. documents
- Meaning of neutrality - some suggested other words: fair, even-handed, open-minded
- Relationship to information: providing access vs. making public vs. creating safe and private spaces for exploration
- Preserving intellectual freedom: the right to access misinformation
- Is our role to expand movements?
- Some allied professions favor technology/AI solutions; most journalists and librarians seem to favor human solutions
Know News White Paper:

http://slis.simmons.edu/blogs/disinformation/white-paper/