

International Conference on 'Literacy and Multilingualism' and UNESCO International Literacy Prizes Awards Ceremony

9 September 2019

UNESCO Headquarters, Fontenoy Building, Room IV, Paris, France

Main objectives

- To have a better grasp of global landscapes of 'literacy and multilingualism' in today's world and generate ideas to build on previous efforts to promote literacy in multilingual contexts;
- To examine main characteristics of 'literacy and multilingualism' in today's globalized, digitalized world for improved policies and practice;
- To identify main factors that make policies and programmes to promote literacy and multilingualism more inclusive and effective;
- To explore elements of conducive environments, conditions, and partnerships that can help expanding mother language-based, multilingual approaches to literacy.

Embracing linguistic diversity in education and literacy development is central to addressing these challenges in today's world, in which multilingualism has become increasingly common with the higher human mobility. Multilingualism contributes to the development of inclusive societies that allow multiple cultures, worldviews and knowledge systems to coexist and cross fertilize. It is also characteristic of many marginalized and at risk populations, including migrants, refugees and other people on the move. This session aims to provide an overview of literacy in a multilingual contexts by exploring current trends and issues from holistic and interdisciplinary perspectives. Moderator: Mr Borhene Chakroun, Director, Division for Policies and Lifelong Learning Systems, Education Sector, UNESCO Panelists: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Ms Ana Deumert, Professor of Linguistics, University of Cape Town, South Africa • Ms Ásdís R. Today, people and societies are more interconnected and interdependent than they have been at any time in the past. Multilingualism extends beyond geographical boundaries due to rapidly increasing human mobility and the growing ubiquity of multimodal and instantaneous communication. These changes have educational repercussion that are influenced by their socio-economic, cultural and political dimensions. This session will examine policies and practices related to language, literacy development and lifelong learning within changing multilingual contexts. Moderator: Ms Mari Yasunaga, Programme Specialist, Section of Youth, Literacy and Skills Development, Education Sector, UNESCO Panelists: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Mr Tue Halgreen, Senior Analyst, Programme for International Student Assessment, Organization for Economic Co-Operation and Development • Mr Gde Nala Antara, Director, BASAbali, Indonesia • Mr François Yvon, Director of Computer Science Laboratory for |

| 13:45 – 15:30 | Panel Session 3: ‘Literacy and multilingualism’ and inclusion The objective of Sustainable Development Goal 4 to ensure ‘inclusive and equitable quality education and promote lifelong learning opportunities for all’ will only be fully achieved if the learning needs of young people and adults with limited literacy skills are met with inclusive education. Mother language-based multilingual approaches to literacy are a pillar of this education. These approaches recognize linguistic and cultural diversity, support literacy and learning and preserve human dignity by respecting the needs of different groups and individuals. This session will reflect on how to make literacy provision more inclusive in today’s multilingual societies, especially for speakers of non-dominant languages, as well as marginalized and vulnerable people, including ethnic minorities, indigenous people, women, rural dwellers, migrants, refugees, and internally displaced people, people in situation of fragility and conflict, and people with disabilities. Moderator: Mr David Atchoarena, Director, UNESCO Institute for Lifelong Learning Key note speech, Princess Laurentien of the Netherlands, UNESCO Special Envoy on Literacy for Development Commemoration of the 10th anniversary of HRH’s commitment as UNESCO Special Envoy on Literacy for Development <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Ms Stefania Gianini, ADG/ED, UNESCO • HRH Princess Laurentien of the Netherlands, UNESCO Special Envoy on Literacy for Development Panelists: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Mr Joseph Lo Bianco, Professor of Language and Literacy Education, Melbourne Graduate School of Education, University of Melbourne • Mr Gregorio Hernandez Zamora, Professor, Universidad Autonoma Metropolitana, Mexico • Ms Barbara Trudell, Director of Research and Advocacy, SIL • Mr Kamel Kherbouche, Director-General, National Office of Literacy and |
