No

Are there any suggestions that you wish to make in respect of the proposed themes, questions and indicators which are included in the framework as it stands?

No

What sources and means of verification would you recommend, from your experience, in relation to any of the questions and indicators that have been proposed?

Large collaborative computing networks such as UK-based JISC (www.jisc.ac.uk) which services universities through JANET (www.jisc.ac.uk/janet) would be helpful on universality indicators, such as accessibility and multi-stakeholder, but also on cross-cutting indicators, such as trust and security. These collaborations could be sector-based, national or cross-national.
